[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The long deferred debate on the sugar schedule of the Tariff Bill came on abruptly

1 o'clock today, after the Senate had disposed of the cereals in the agricultural schedule.

Senator Jones of Arkansas opened the debate to some extent, answering Mr. Aldrich's statement on the sugar schedule. Mr. Vest severely criticized the Sugar Trust and argued that the sugar schedule should be further adjusted to the needs of the people.

No final action was taken on any feature of the schedule further than the withdrawal of the original Senate committee amendments. This leaves the House provisions of the bill, with an amendment increasing the House

Early in the day Mr. Tillman of South Carolina made a speech in favor of the amendment providing for an export bounty on agricultural products.

EXTRA SESSION.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 10.—SENATE.—The Senate began work at 11 o'clock.

Today, and the Tariff Bill was taken up as soon as routine business was out of the way. Senator Tillman of South Carolina took the floor on the pending amendment of Senator Cannon of Utah, providing for an export bounty on agricultural products. He said he desired the attention of his sociates, and, as the attendance was meager, he noted the absence of a quorum. A call disclosed 54 Senators present, nine more than a quorum, and Senator Tillman proceeded. He said the tariff debate had disclosed a nebulous condition in the minds of Senators. The Republican Senators his readiness to support the export bounty if modified so as to confine the bounty to goods exported in vessels flying the flag of the United States and documented in the customhouse of the United States. He proposed amendment to this effect.

Mr. Perkins of California announced that he had secured the support of the Senate for the proposed amendment.

There was some opposition to the bill from Mr. Tillman and Mr. Allen, but Mr. Cannon, author of the original amendment, said he was disposed, as a means of securing the support of Perkins and others of the Republic side of the chamber, to accept the new proposition if 75 per cent. of the bounty should go to the agricultural exporter, and 25 per cent. to the American vessel.

suggestion, saying he was not seeking a subsidy for the vessel men, but merely to limit the bounty to goods carried in American ships. The U. S. Senator could, Mr. Perkins said, either accept or reject the amendment as a whole. Mr. Cannon declined to accept the amendment, and Mr. Perkins thereupon withdrew it.

Mr. Jones of Arkansas was recognized for a speech on the general features of the sugar schedule. The Senator had before him small bottles showing the various grades of sugar raw and refined, and with these illustrated his argument as he proceeded. He asserted that the sugar proposition would increase profits of the sugar refiners in export. If that was the purpose of managers of the bill, they should be known. He was in favor of a on sugar, but he believed it should be made as light as possible, and should give no special benefit to anybody.

Early in his remarks Mr. Jones ferred to the unfairness of Mr. A. N. Jones' statement on the sugar schedule in speaking of the difference between German sugar and the raw sugar coming to this country. The comparison was not a fair one, Mr. Jones contended, as the German sugars could be compared to the American. When figuring on the amount that should go to the refiners, the American art-raw and refined, must be considered rather than the German. With great emphasis Mr. Jones declared that he proposed to see that there was no contention before German granular was taken as the basis for finding differential due to the refiner. Jones insisted that the grades of su-

HE CLAIMED THE MEN WERE ACTUALLY PRIZE-FIGHTING.

Octagon Defeats Scottish Chieftain for the Brooklyn Derby-Ball at Philadelphia—American Cricketers at Manchester.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.] NEW YORK, June 10.—Peter Maher and Thomas Sharkey, heavy-weight pugilists who were arrested last night after the fight at the Palace Athletic Club, were discharged by Magistrate Cornell in Harlem Police Court today. The magistrate admitted that the conduct of the men in the seventh round might have been disorderly, and said he was glad to have them locked up, but that, nevertheless, as far as he could see, there has been no violation of the law.

When the case was called, Magistrate Cornell invited Inspector McLaughlin to sit at the side of the bench. The inspector insisted that there was no prize fight, but that the men were engaged in a prize fight he did not know what it was.

Magistrate Cornell stated that he had read the accounts of the fight, and while he believed that the inspector was right in separating the men, he did not think they could be strictly held for violating the Horton law. Neither pugilist bore any signs of having been engaged in a prize fight, and there was no evidence of ill-feeling.

SHARKEY GREATLY IMPROVED.

NEW YORK, June 10.—[Special Dispatch.] Although the action of the police in putting an end to the Maher-Sharkey boxing bout at the Palace Athletic Club was commended by the presiding magistrate before whom the men appeared this morning, it bore no more fruit than confinement which lasted as long as was required to make out the bail bonds, and the men are now free to go somewhere else and punch to their heart's content.

Both men were fresh when the bout ended, though Sharkey, it is admitted, looked the better of the two. Maher's failure to attack was due to the fact that from the beginning the sailor kept the big Irishman guessing his next move, and Maher had his hands full taking care of his stomach. The sailor is a wonderful improvement, thanks to Joe Choyinski, over the Sharkey that faced Corbett and Fitzsimmons in San Francisco.

SULLY MUST BE "JAGGED."

The Big Fellow Corners Fitz and Makes Him Talk Fight.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.] BUFFALO (N. Y.), June 10.—John L. Sullivan arrived in Buffalo this evening, in company with his backers, Frank E. Dunn of Boston, and immediately started on a hunt for Champion Bob Fitzsimmons. The rival pugilists came together at the Lyceum Theater where Fitzsimmons's vaudeville company is holding forth. Sullivan wanted to talk fight right away, but was prevailed on to wait until the conclusion of the performance.

At 11 o'clock tonight, Sullivan, Fitzsimmons, Quinn, Martin Julian and a host of other sports met at the Tiffan. Sullivan issued a formal challenge to Fitzsimmons for a finish fight for the world's championship and a side bet of $5000. Dunn produced $1000 to bind the match. Fitzsimmons at first declared that he thought he had earned a rest, and did not intend to fight again for at least a year, but on Sullivan urging him strongly to arrange a match, the champion promised to take the matter into consideration and give Sullivan a definite answer shortly. The meeting between the fighters was quite friendly.

THE BROOKLYN DERBY.

Octagon Beats Scottish Chief, the Favorite, With Ease.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.] NEW YORK, June 10.—There was a heavy track at Gravesend today, and the showers which came occasionally did not improve the going. The feature was the Brooklyn Derby at a mile and a quarter for three-year-olds, and six went to the post with Scottish Chieftain, winner of the Belmont, as the favorite. The Belmont pair, Octagon and Don de Oro, were second choices, and Buddha was third in favoritism. The betting was heavy, and the bulk of the money was on Scottish Chieftain. The delay was slight at the post, and they got away in good order, Octagon showing the way past the grand stand for the first time, and all were under choking pulls.

As they rounded the back stretch they were well bunched, with the exception of Octagon, who was running free in front of the others. As they came into the stretch, Don de Oro moved up into second place to his stablemate, Octagon. Doggett then began to urge Buddha, which had been lagging, but the best he could do was a dingdong finish for second money, which he got by a nose on the post, Octagon winning easily. Results: Five furlongs—Lady Cooper won, Gosha second, Colonial Dame third; time 1:06 1/4.

One mile and a furlong—Doggett won, Lake Shore second, Peep O' day third; time 1:58 1/4. Hanover Stakes, half a mile—Demagogue won, Blue Away second, Kilt third; time 0:49 1/2.

Brooklyn Derby, one mile and a quarter—Octagon, 12 (Sim), 1 to 2; won; Buddha, 122 (Doggett), 3 to 1; second; Don de Oro, 127 (Griffin), third; time 2:40 1/4. Scottish Chieftain, the Friar and Braw Lad also ran.

Montauk Stakes, six furlongs—Voter won, Bill All second, Xmas third; time 1:16 1/4. One mile—Haphazard won, Azure second, Ooh Johnny third; time 1:44 1/4.

EASTERN BASEBALL.

TWO GIFTS FROM ENTHUSIASTS.

THE KEY TO PROSPERITY AND A BUNCH OF BLUE GRASS.

Short Speech to a Clamoring Audience—End of the Journey Now Nearly at Hand—The Trip to the Great Salt Lake.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.] COVINGTON (Va.), June 10.—The President, while en route from the hot springs to the depot, was cheered by large crowds of mountaineers, white and black.

Just before reaching Covington, President McKinley came into the correspondents' car. He commented upon the beauty of the country, and called upon all to note that he was not making "any speeches this trip."

The country through which the party passed yesterday had special points of special interest to the President, who, surrounded by the correspondents, told of war experiences at Staunton and Culpeper. President McKinley asked what Washington could do without all the news purveyors, and to the query, "What will they do there without you about sending Cox to Madrid?" he replied: "Oh, we attended to all that before we left Washington."

ENTHUSIASM INCREASING.

HUNTINGTON (W. Va.), June 10.—At Hinton the largest crowd yet seen upon the trip was encountered. There were tremendous cheers, and one enthusiastic citizen presented the President with a "key to prosperity."

At Hinton there was another big crowd, with a number of children. The President was urged to speak, but in his stead, Secretary Sherman delivered a few words of friendly greeting. At Charleston, the State capital, there was the usual big crowd, and a brass band composed of colored men added the strains of "El Capitano" to the greeting.

As the train proceeded west the crowds at the depots seemed to increase. At Huntington, which was reached at 6:30 p.m., there were 2000 people, including U. A. R. post. The President shook hands with many in the crowd.

After the train had crossed into Kentucky it remained for Ashland to assemble by far the biggest and most enthusiastic crowd that had greeted the party. The people would not be satisfied with bows or handshakes, and the President, smiling pleasantly, said: "It would be very ungracious on my part if I did not so far modify the resolution 'made before leaving Washington, that I would make no speeches on the journey, to at least thank you all for this cordial and generous greeting. [Applause.] All along the route, whether in West Virginia, Virginia or Kentucky, we have felt the warm welcome of our fellow-citizens. I do not misinterpret it. It is because the people and all the people have interest in the government of the United States, and every woman has an interest in seeing that the government, which they control, shall be once more restored to its condition of progress and prosperity. [Cheers and applause.] And I pray God that that time may not be long delayed. I thank you and bid you all good afternoon."

Hon. Thomas Newman, Mayor of Ashland, led the cheering that followed the speech, and some one handed the President a bunch of blue grass, which aids in making Kentucky famous.

At Mt. Sterling the cheers were especially lusty, and the speaker spoke a few felicitous words, in which he expressed his gratification at the reception accorded him, especially at so late an hour as 10 o'clock. He referred to his trip to Nashville, where, in company with thousands of fellow-citizens, he would aid in observing and commemorating the centennial of Tennessee and the South in industrial and material developments, and in general prosperity. Again expressing his appreciation of the cordial Kentucky greetings given, the President bade the crowds good-night. There were calls for Secretary Sherman, but the train moved on before he could respond.

President McKinley has not yet decided upon where he will spend the heated term. The length of the Congressional session is a factor, but a largely influential factor. But if Congress adjourns in time, it is pretty well decided that the President will be in Salt Lake, Utah, July 28, and may decide upon an extension of his trip so as to include California.

RECEPTION AT LEXINGTON.

LEXINGTON, June 10.—The special train bearing President McKinley and party arrived here at 11 o'clock to-night and remained twenty-five minutes, during which time President McKinley and H. C. Rogers, Secretary of the Interior, and Gen. Grosvenor made short speeches. A crowd of several thousands gave the President a warm reception.

President McKinley was introduced from the rear platform of his car by State Representative R. P. Stoll. He said, in part: "It is too late to do much more than to acknowledge this warm and cordial greeting from the people of Lexington, Ky. It is all the more notable because of the lateness of the hour. It calls to mind, and it is a very pleasant memory, that you gave me a similar greeting when I was on my way South once before. In every section I find the people loyally upholding the government. Thanking you, I now bid you good-night."

The President's train reached Nashville at 3 o'clock in the morning.

SOCIETY BELLE KILLED.

Shot While Attempting to Serenade an Arkansas Teacher.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.] LITTLE ROCK (Ark.), June 10.—Miss Leona Goodman, one of the most popular society belles of Dardanelle, was killed in a most shocking manner at Rover, Ark., last night. The Yell county normal convention is being held at that place, and a large number of teachers are in attendance. Last night a party of young ladies and gentlemen were out serenading and went to a house where a young teacher named Lipp was stopping. When awakened by the serenaders, Lipp deliberately fired a pistol shot into the serenading party.

The bullet struck Miss Goodman in the neck, causing instant death. The murderer was arrested and spirited away to Danville by the officers, who feared that an attempt would be made by the excited people to lynch him.

FLASHES FROM THE WIRES.

The New York Herald's correspondent in Montevideo telegraphs that the insurgents are gaining ground. They are now besieging the town of San Jose.

The Brazilian government will attempt to get San Orille of Montevideo, Uruguay, to send him to the purpose of eliminating his discovery of a cure for yellow fever.

The New York Herald's correspondent in Guatemala telegraphs that the government has issued a decree quarantining for seven days all vessels on which cases of fever of any kind have occurred. The Pacific Mail steamships San Jose and Acapulco are in quarantine at the port of San Jose.

A St. Louis dispatch says that F. W. Cramall of the Western Electric Company of Chicago, who bought the Southern Railway, is still in quarantine. One of the sick passengers has died, but the others are improving. Minister Eustace has left for Washington.

All the members of the Ottumwa (Iowa) bar, except six, three of whom were engaged in the prosecution of Hamilton, the convicted bank-robber, have been called to the district judge to reconsider his decision and grant him a new trial, stating that in his opinion he was egregiously convicted under the evidence. Hamilton will not be taken to the penitentiary until the result is known.

A St. Mary's (Kan.) dispatch says that Judge J. W. Fitzgerald is dying at his home there. Judge Fitzgerald went to Kansas from Cincinnati ten years ago, and since then has been engaged in an important career in politics. He was at one time very prominent in Irish affairs. His name is sometimes coupled with that of John Fitzgerald, former president of the Irish Land League of America.

A New York dispatch says J. Pierpont Morgan has returned from Europe. He has been arranging while abroad for important changes and reorganizations in several large railroad properties. The deal in Northern Pacific controlled by the Morgan family is said to involve the transfer of the controlling interest in the road to the Great Northern clique which upholds James J. Hill in the management of the latter property.

A dispatch from the City of Mexico says that existing concessions and contracts granted to the Mexican National Construction Company have been forfeited for non-fulfillment of the terms of the charter. The company, however, has one line operating from Mazatlan to Colima, the capital of the State of the same name. This line, of course, remains in possession of the company, but it loses the proposed extension of this line from Colima to the city of Guadalajara.

The A.O.U.W. election at Milwaukee yesterday afternoon was in the nature of a general election, and the result was a surprise. Master Workman J. G. Tate of Grand Island, Neb., became Past Supreme Master Workman, the resolution "made before leaving Washington, that I would make no speeches on the journey, to at least thank you all for this cordial and generous greeting. [Applause.] All along the route, whether in West Virginia, Virginia or Kentucky, we have felt the warm welcome of our fellow-citizens. I do not misinterpret it. It is because the people and all the people have interest in the government of the United States, and every woman has an interest in seeing that the government, which they control, shall be once more restored to its condition of progress and prosperity. ## BURNES-JONES' "VAMPIRE."

Some Pertinent Comment as to Woman's Ways.

The St. Louis Republic says: As a rule, it is well known to all who are addresses promising to do sensational or even strikingly unconventional things. A yearning after the gentle "free ad" is ordinarily the mainspring of such conduct. It should be noted that London stage woman who now threatens to sue Rudyard Kipling for libel alleged to have been contained in his "Vampire" story, written to accompany Burnes-Jones' now famous painting, will make her threat good. If, indeed, the cable letters affirm, the English actress has discovered that Burnes-Jones' vampire-woman is a counterfeit presentation of herself, and that she is therefore the heroine of Mr. Kipling's cynical chant, it is not surprising that she is a trifle hot about the collar. To be limited by painters and scribbles by poets is most often a blissful short-cut to immortality, but Burnes-Jones's limning, and especially Rudyard Kipling's singing in tribute to her, seem to have bit too strong in limelight relief, even for one accustomed to the glare of the calcium.

It is more than probable that the "Vampire" painting itself would never have aroused the publicly expressed indignation of its alleged original, despite the fact of the rather dissipated-looking female therein presented to public view. A woman can forgive much in oils. But when Rudyard Kipling sucked the lead of his Faber and burned his model full of Burnes-Jones's woman and then sat down and sang of that woman as "a rag, and a bone and a hank of hair," why, he laid out trouble for himself as surely as the sparks fly upward.

And although the reckless Rudyard further characterizes his victim as "the vampire," there is no doubt that we know that she never could know—and did not understand, "that doesn't by any means go without saying. She does know, and she does understand, if there's anything in the libel law of old England Mr. Kipling himself may yet be made to know and to understand that he can't talk about a woman in such a way with impunity.

A rag and a bone and a hank of hair, indeed. The author of the phrase "the very lucky" has had that much of his own body and raiment left should the London actress get a fair whack at him in the courts.

MR. BATES AND HIS ROLL.

IT WAS NOT IN HIS JEANS ON HIS COMING TO.

The Party in Question Sees the Wagner People and the Court After Three Years Gives Him Damages.

[BY THE TIMES' SPECIAL WIRE.] NEW YORK, June 10.—[Special Dispatch.] The action of the jury of the City Court Tuesday in giving a verdict for $1250 against the Wagner Palace Car Company for money which was lost by R. W. Bates, in August, 1894, in a sleeping car, while he was coming to this city from Buffalo, establishes the liability of the company for money lost by passengers while in transit.

Bates placed $1250 in a small pocket in his trousers. He folded the garment, which he placed in a corner of his berth. When he reached home, the money was gone, but some paper, carefully folded, was in its place. The judge charged the jury as follows:

"A railroad corporation which runs sleeping-cars on its road is bound to exercise ordinary care. If it neglects and if any money is taken from passengers, which money was necessary for the passenger's traveling expense and comfort, according to his station in life, the company would be liable therefor.

"The company," he continued, "as a sleeping-car company, is not a common carrier or insurer, but by accepting compensation for furnishing sleeping accommodations to a passenger, the defendant assumed an obligation to exercise reasonable care to protect from loss or injury all such property as the passenger was entitled to carry as a passenger."

SANTA MONICA.

A VISIT TO THE LONG WHARF AT PORT LOS ANGELES.

What the Barnacle-backed Reporter Saw There—The San Mateo Discharging Coal—Big Catches of Mackerel at the Long Pier.

For the last three times that the Times barnacle-backed reporter has been to Santa Monica, there has been a visit to the long wharf at Port Los Angeles. He has been there at the time he was walking around the town and admiring the visitors from abroad. But yesterday he was told that a collier was discharging at the pier and he went to take it all in. The beach was lined with children with their clothes tucked up above their knees as they dashed out after the retreating waves and then dashed ashore again as the foamy breakers chased after them. Mothers and nurses were seated on the snowy sands with faintly-colored parasols over their heads, while the laughter of the children mingled with the scream of the sea-meets overhead.

The vessel at the dock was the Hawaiian steamer Charters, formerly the British steamer Charters. Towers. She had returned from Australia to England when she was purchased by the Pacific Improvement Company and sent around here under the Hawaiian flag. The company also owns the Minola, which is the only American ship of the four now plying between San Francisco and Honolulu. The other three British Columbia mines, and the other two being the Peter Jensen and the Florida, both chartered vessels. The Minola will carry about 4000 tons, the San Mateo 3500, the Charters 3000, and the Peter Jensen 2500. These four ships were handled at the bunkers of Port Los Angeles, last month, a trifling amount, but they were the only ships to all from British Columbia.

The Comex coal is not equal to that of Nanaimo, but is far and away the best of the kind. It is a hard coal, being at least 1000 years old formation. To be proper about it, the Nanaimo and Comex measures are of the same age, but the Comex is a little higher grade than that found at Monte Diablo and Corral Holes.

With a reef good gang of shoglers in her hands, the San Mateo could empty herself out in thirty-two working hours, but it takes about forty. The dock is filled with long trains of coal cars which are run under the bunkers and filled by opening a slide. The San Mateo is a fine ship, and by large iron scoop buckets containing about 1200 pounds at once. There is no speedier way of unloading here. The San Mateo is a fine ship, and by large iron scoop buckets containing about 1200 pounds at once. There is no speedier way of unloading here.

It was a sample of average modern steam for you. Four men with less than $500,000 between them, over and above what they owed, began to build a railroad and the government took over. The San Mateo had not been done six years before they were so rich that it was not till a trusted employee had been found that the San Mateo was built. The San Mateo was a fine ship, and by large iron scoop buckets containing about 1200 pounds at once. There is no speedier way of unloading here.

It would look differently if Mr. Huntington were not interested in a big ship-building plant in the city. He is capable of building steamers that could carry as much cargo as the Florida and beat her a mile in every hour. He has both the money and the ability to consume any more fuel than these old ships do. It is pretty well known that coal has been figured down pretty close lately, so that they are only allowed twenty-eight tons per day. With the chartered ships the San Mateo is different. The San Mateo is a fine ship, and by large iron scoop buckets containing about 1200 pounds at once. There is no speedier way of unloading here.

Mormon Elders Meet with Opposition—Channel City Notes. SANTA BARBARA, June 10.—[Regular Correspondence.] The Mormon elders who were here recently, and took a trip across the mountains, returned yesterday and started to speak last evening at the corner of Ortega street. A citizen who took exception to their views undertook the discussion with them and the "meeting" promised to be a lively one. A railroad and the government took over. The San Mateo had not been done six years before they were so rich that it was not till a trusted employee had been found that the San Mateo was built. ## THE BRIDE HAS SEVENTEEN MILLIONS.

And is Heir to More—The Groom's Diplomatic and Patriotic Record—His Grandfather's Boston's Grandest Affair.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) BOSTON, June 10.—A wedding ceremony, the character of which placed it in the front rank as the grandest this city has ever seen and which, in point of wealth represented, also among the great weddings of the century, was celebrated at the Hotel Marlborough, last night, when Miss Isabelle Perkins married to LARSE ANDERSON.

The bride is the daughter of Capt. George Hamilton Perkins, U.S.N., retired, and granddaughter of the late William F. Weld of this city, whose millions she inherits. The groom is the son of a well-known Washington family, the late Gen. Nicholas Anderson, died about a few years ago. He is a Harvard graduate and was associated with Robert T. Lincoln in the United States Embassy at London, and later was First Secretary of Legation in Italy, under Wayne MacVeagh.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Cuckson in the Arlington-street Church at noon. Among those present were some of the most wealthy and prominent members of society from California, and many from other States. The historic auditorium was beautifully decorated. Immediately after the ceremony the bride party proceeded to the Perkins home on Commonwealth avenue, where a wedding breakfast was served. The bride and groom were accompanied by a large party of friends.

Miss Isabelle Perkins was awarded a diploma with high honor. The other bridesmaids were also highly praised. Dean Randall, of the University of California, was present. The bride and groom were accompanied by a large party of friends.

MISS HASSE'S NEW WORK.

She Has Begun Her New Duties in the Astor Library, New York.

(New York Tribune, June 10.) Beginning with today a new woman in the country, Miss Hassel, is inaugurated in the Astor Library. Recognizing their importance in the history of the nation, Dr. Billings has decided that the large collection of American history in the library is to be augmented by a well-arranged library of the official documents of the United States and the more important European countries. In recognition of her work in the Bureau of Public Documents at Washington, Miss Hassel has been called to give her services in this department. Miss Hassel came directly from Washington, where for two years past she has been librarian and chief assistant in the Bureau of Public Documents. She resigned this place to accept that in the Astor Library, thereby putting herself on record by proving that there is at least one exception to the general rule that "Government employees seldom die and never resign."

It is not exaggeration to say that Miss Hassel knows more about Uncle Sam's public documents than any other woman in the country. Indeed, so complete and so wide is the range of her knowledge in this line that she has been referred to by the chief of the bureau as a "living index." If a puzzled Congressman wanted to know the amount of money expended by the United States in the navy, or the number of ships, their cost, condition, etc., or the intriguing man from out West wrote for the history of the Asiatic coast, this energetic young librarian could always give him the answer.

Miss Hassel was formerly assistant librarian and head of the library training school in the Astor Library. The public library, one of the best equipped small libraries in the United States, and came all the way from California to fill the place at Washington. The Bureau of Public Documents having just been created under the new government, Miss Hassel was the object of the bureau was to classify and arrange for reference the maze of dusty books, musty pamphlets, and old-fashioned reports, and to make a bibliography of the entire collection. The object of the bureau was to classify and arrange for reference the maze of dusty books, musty pamphlets, and old-fashioned reports, and to make a bibliography of the entire collection.

Among the other things, Miss Hassel has assisted in compiling a little volume entitled "List of Books for Girls and Women and Their Clubs," issued by the American Library Association in Boston. It takes up the department of biology, history, travel, literature, poetry, essays, criticism and fiction. In addition to this work, Miss Hassel was engaged in the preparation of a catalogue of the interesting Pike Library, which is now in the hands of the Supreme Council, and comprising some sixty thousand volumes of rare and curious books. She has also given much time to the compilation of government bibliographies, and has in manuscript a complete list of the bibliographies published by the United States government, and another of the explorations and travels conducted by the government. She is at present engaged in the collection of material relating to the printing of the House of Representatives.

Value of Legumes in Orchard.

[Citrifrag.] When Prof. Budd of the Iowa Agricultural College, was here he was continually talking of the necessity of planting legumes in our orange orchards. He explained that the practice of clean culture in winter and said that nitrogen fixing plants should occupy the ground during that season, to be plowed under in the spring. Since leaving here, Prof. Budd has written the following letter on the same subject:

"Under the earth the value of clover in keeping up the fertility of the soil in orchard and garden was well understood long prior to the discovery of scientists that its root nodules developed nitrogen in the soil and rendered other essentials to perfect plant growth available. More recently, in the fruit-growing centers of Europe and Asia, other legumes such as the common pea, the cow pea, the lupines and the vetches, were found quite as valuable as the clover as nitrogen manufacturers, the better fitted for growth among fruit trees, especially in countries where summer culture is essential."

In South France, Italy, and Florida, prior to the freeze, orange orchards could be found with perfect foliage and crop of perfect fruit which have for ten years or more had no winter peas, lupines or vetches turned under. A good illustration in Southern California is the winter orchard of Ford & Redlands. For two springs in succession a has turned under heavy crops of peas. In addition he has put on some wood ashes. Visitors will find the foliage of his orchard peculiarly dark and uniform in color, and will hear the story that the heavy crop of navel oranges was uniform in size, dark-colored, and free from cracks or roughened skin.

This effect on the foliage, heavy bearing and grade of fruit, has been attributed to the use of wood ashes. Europe and America, not only with citrus fruits, but with all the deciduous ones. The hums from the turned under crops of peas, lupines, and vetches, developed, seems to be the one thing needful for perfect fruits, especially when supplemented with wood ashes.

Among the other grains of the winter covering of the soil with legumes may be enumerated, first, the lessened wash of the soil by winter rains; second, the lessened evaporation; third, the more perfect rest of the trees in winter and the better the soil is, the more certain that the fruit will not drop; fifth, the annual crop of humus turned under will put the soil in better mechanical condition, and the water held better during the irrigating period.

The Canadian peas do well here, and is much cheaper than that of the garden sorts better for the table use. Mr. Ford of Redlands uses the Prussian blue variety, as it is a good table use at a profit. In South France the lupines are used. Over Southern California are found several native species which are well adapted to the soil. If not plowed under until the seed ripens, the one sowing will seed the ground for years.

Another grand advantage for the sandier lands of this vicinity is the Russian vetch. On quite this land this will make a grand growth, and as a nitrogen producer it is well adapted to this region; yet they are very hardy, as found in the old world, the experiment would soon determine the hardiness.

The frequent query, "Will not plowing under a heavy crop of barley or alfalfa make the soil too rich?" under the peas, lupines, or vetches, needs the practical man's answer to a full crop: Will plowing under a full crop of peas, lupines, or vetches make the soil too rich? The answer is, "No." They are a good crop of clover.

The Times

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

Small boys will do well to take notice that curfew rings at 9 p.m. in Los Angeles, and all good little boys must be at home, if not in bed, at that hour. The police will take care of the others.

A San Diego doctor refuses to divulge the names of two burglars from whom he picked bird-shot that had been fired into them by a householder, and the doctors are indignant over the burglary.

Both the Chamber of Commerce and the Mining Exchange have appointed each five delegates to the Gold-Miners' Convention, which meets at Denver on the 7th of July. It is hoped that as many as possible of these delegates will make it convenient to go to Denver, as the convention is an important one, especially just now, when much attention is being directed to the gold resources of the State.

San Bernardino can have no more street lighting until after the vegetable season, because the Chinese gardeners use all the water in the ditch for irrigation and leave none to run the electric company's dynamo. The electric light superintendent is making no anti-Chinese demonstration; he has simply shut down the works and notified San Bernardino citizens to keep early hours during the dark of the moon.

S. J. Doeland of New York State has arrived here in search of his brother, who was reported to him as having been scalped by the "Wahatch" Indians near Sierra Madre Villa, and is going out toward Saugus to find them. It is to be hoped that he will find Pete and Ben enjoying their bacon and beans in some mining camp. If he can find the fellow who wrote the cruel lie, it is to be hoped that he will know what to do with him and have muscle enough to do it.

A Riverside editor declares that a newspaper correspondent, who is connected with a paper that ventures to disagree with the Randsburg people, is in danger of being murdered on the desert, and follows his astounding declaration with this naive confession: "We'll venture the assertion that the fool writer of the above wouldn't be ten minutes in Randsburg until one could play a game of seven-up on his coat-tail—legging it out of camp." He may overstate his sprinting abilities, but otherwise he sizes himself up quite accurately.

Wagner, the man who was bunched at Santa Monica about two weeks ago by members of King Warren's gang, persisted in "hollering" about his $107 and in grabbing steerers on the street until he became wearisome to the gentlemen who are "doing the best they can," and to get rid of him they gave him about half of his money a few days ago. If every victim of the bunco men would roar at the top of his voice and compel the pirates to disgorge, the business of fishing for suckers would become profitable and Spring street would soon miss some of its regular promenaders.

A number of the property-owners who protested against the repaving of Main street in the business portion of the city have relented and have expressed their willingness to sign a petition to the Council on lines similar to those first laid down. The fact that the city told them that it would pay for no more repairs, and that they must use the present pavement until it should be relaid at their expense, did not appeal to their reason. It is only when their tenants threaten to look elsewhere for business quarters that their sense of profit and loss prevails.

CURFEW RINGS AGAIN.

Boys Must Not Be Abroad at Night

"Curfew shall not ring tonight" is no longer a truthful statement. The curfew law will henceforth be enforced, and every boy under 15 years of age who is found on the street alone after 9 p.m. will be in imminent danger of being consigned to the depths of the City Jail.

February 23 the Los Angeles City Council enacted a curfew law, making it a public offense for any boy under 15 years of age to be alone on the street at night without some good reason for his presence there. The ordinance has not been observed at all, and there have been frequent complaints of the evil influence upon the morals of the rising generation of nocturnal wanderings.

John Tierney and Willie Foster were out last night on Main street near First. Officer Blackburn convinced himself their reasons for being abroad were irrelevant, immaterial and incompetent. He arrested them both and the first victims of the curfew law spent the night in jail.

A Newsboy's Row.

The newsboy who is just starting in business does not always have a very easy time of it. Clinton Brown, who lives over the Golden Eagle market on Main street, yesterday was selling papers. He has not been in the trade very long, and John Fohay, a newsboy of long standing, thought it incumbent upon him to show the newcomer that he must respect his superiors. He knocked Clinton's papers out of his hands, and when he retaliated, John smashed his rival three times in the eye. Officer Redfern gave the offending newsboy a lecture, and carried him off to jail. Clerk Bean read him a lecture on the sinfulness of his ways, and then told him to go away and never do it again.

A VANISHED DOUBT.

Ellen Beach Yaw's Phenomenal Triumph at Oakland.

When the gifted young woman who is to contribute her talents to the benefit of the newboys at the Los Angeles Theater next Monday night, appeared in Oakland some time since, the Times of that city said: "Old-timers who cherish in their hearts memories of Nilsson, Parepa, Rosa and Patti in her prime fondly flatter themselves that there is no effort of the human voice which can stir them as they have been stirred, but all must admit a new and indescribable sensation at hearing a voice which can sing nearly an octave higher than those famous song birds ever soared. This was the sensation enjoyed by a large and representative audience of Oakland's music lovers at the Macdonough last evening. Much had been heard of Miss Ellen Beach Yaw, the phenomenal new singer, who, in point of vocal range, surpasses all the singers of history, and many were the doubts expressed beforehand as to her ability to reach the expectations aroused by these preliminary announcements. But all these doubts were expressed before the concert; there were none heard afterwards, for she surpassed all expectations."

"Her opening number was the 'Villanelle' song a dainty little selection, and well chosen for her upper tones—those usually considered about the limit of a high soprano voice—were clear and flute like, and above that they are fine and resonant, the harmonies of a violin. The selection from 'Traviata,' which was the second selection of this double number, was even better suited to show the range of her voice, and when with apparent ease she sang to B above high E, the audience broke into loud and enthusiastic applause. After that her triumph was assured."

"The enthusiasm was tremendous, and such calls were numerous." The auction sale of boxes for this entertainment will be held in the lobby of the theater tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, and the sale of seats begins at 9 a.m.

REBUILDING THE BURBANK.

Insurance Adjusted and Men Clearing Out the Debris.

In less than two months the Burbank Theater will be rebuilt and reopened, and the statement of the program laid out by Mr. Griffin. Men were put to work yesterday at clearing up the charred and blackened debris which makes the stage and all around it look a hopeless wreck.

Appearances are deceitful, however, for the walls are intact. The wood-work is a heap of cinders, and the entire auditorium is blackened and scorched so that the theater will require fresh fittings throughout. Mr. Griffin has estimated the probable cost of repairs somewhere in the neighborhood of $7000. The scenery and furnishings of the stage, which belong to A. J. Pearson, are a total loss, as they were uninsured.

Upon the building itself were placed two separate skeletons of $5000 each, one upon the entrance, café, etc., extending to the swing doors of the theater, and the other upon the theater itself. In adjusting the losses, the insurance company did not see its way clear to allowing the entire $5000, though the amount to be paid is not far from that sum. Just what was allowed, the insurance agent declines to make public. Work will go on rapidly now until the theater is in shape to be reopened.

HIS SCALPED BROTHERS.

S. J. Dorland Tries to Run Down a Canard.

S. J. Dorland of Akron, N. Y., is in Los Angeles on his way to the desert to hunt for his brothers, Pete and Ben Dorland, whom he believes to have been scalped by Indians.

Dorland is undoubtedly the victim of a cruel practical joke. A letter was received in Akron, signed by D. E. McCann, in which a tragic tale of an Indian massacre was related. The writer announced that his party had set out from Sierra Madre, and one day's ride from the trail had been set upon by Indians. He declared that both Pete and Ben had been murdered in a desperate fight for life. Dorland in great alarm started forthwith for California. Yesterday he reached Los Angeles, and called at the office of Chief Glass for information as to the marauding Indians, whom he half-expected to find murdering women and children on Spring street, and pillaging homes in the Harper tract.

His fears had already been considerably relieved by reading in Wednesday's Times the account of the joke which has presumably been played upon him, and the statement of the absurdity of the stories in the letter from McCann. Chief Glass added his testimony that the letter was probably a lie.

Today Mr. Dorland will go to Thompson, a station between Saugus and Mojave, at which the last letter he received from his brothers was dated, and try to find some trace of the two young men. In their last letter the brothers told him that they were thinking of starting out on a prospecting trip.

LAND OF THE PHARAOHS.

Rev. Haskett Smith Gives Another Interesting Lecture.

The colossal ruins and marvelous history of ancient Egypt formed the rich mine from which Rev. Haskett Smith drew materials for a most interesting lecture last night at Music Hall. Aided by an unusually fine collection of stereopticon views, he led his large and attentive audience through the land of the Pharaohs, illustrating as he went along the brilliant and comprehensive sketch of this ancient home of mystery and grandeur. Even as he told of the glory and power of the Egyptian monarch who reigned 5000 years before the Christian era, there flashed upon the screen vivid pictures of the shattered remains of temples and colossal which now serve as mute reminders to the modern world of the might and majesty that perished ages ago. Tonight Mr. Smith will give what he considers the most interesting of his series of lectures: "The Home of the Giants," in which will be given twenty-one views of Phoenician ruins, ending with Petra, the wonderful city hewn out of the living rock, and with the tombs of Aaron and Miriam.

The Occidental College Sale.

LOS ANGELES, June 9, 1937.—[To the Editor of the Times:] In the matter of the sale of the former Occidental College campus, F. A. Hutchinson's offer as agent was declined by the Board of Trustees, inter alia, because it was not the most advantageous one to the college. Mr. Hutchinson thereupon offered the deposit to the parties from whom he received it, but it was refused with the remark that it was the land that was wanted and not the deposit, and suit was at once instituted against the college trustees to compel the handing of the land. After losing the suit the disappointed parties then turned on Mr. Hutchinson and brought the criminal charges that he had obtained the $50 deposit under false pretenses. There was no evidence that showed that in intent or otherwise Mr. Hutchinson had done anything wrong in the matter, and the jury was scarce out of the court until it knocked on the door ready to return its verdict of not guilty.

Yours very truly,
WILLIAM S. YOUNG.

PEDRO BORRULL'S OFFENSES.

He Has Served Three Terms in the Penitentiary.

Old Pedro Borrull, a Mexican who has three been sent to State's prison, but whose appetite for whisky drives him to continual thefts to buy liquor, was yesterday sentenced to forty days in jail.

Borrull was arrested Wednesday by Officer McKenzie for stealing a Japanese woman's knit skirt. The garment was worth very little, but the old Mexican was so dazed by the liquor which he had drunk and by the crying for more that he did not hunt further for something to steal, but picked up the first thing he could lay hands on.

The prisoner's name to the officers as Gavina Cologna. There is an old offender of that name in the city, a man whom the officers have sent to the penitentiary a number of times. When Bailiff Appel looked at the prisoner he promptly declared that he was not Cologna at all. But the man is 60 years old, and out of age for his miserable old age. Justice Owens gave him only a forty-day sentence.

Borrull has his picture in the rogue's gallery, and the record written on the photograph is so voluminous that all the available space is taken up, and now the new items about him have to be inscribed in ink, right across the face of the old entries.

Pedro or Trinidad Borrull is believed to have formerly been a Mexican soldier. His first recorded criminal act was manslaughter, committed in San Diego county in the eighties.

On conviction he was sent to San Quentin for five years. His first conviction in a Los Angeles court was July 6, 1892, when on complaint of Officer Gridley he was sent to jail for ninety days. On March 18, 1893, he was sentenced to thirty days in jail for the same offense. On July 8, 1893, he was arrested by Officer Steele on a charge of petty larceny, and he had twice before been convicted he was sent to Folsom for one year.

His repeated punishment had not caused any reform at all. In March 14, 1895, he was again on complaint of Detective Goodman. Bail was fixed at $100. While in the County Jail Borrull fell very ill. On account of his condition the existence of prior convictions was ignored, and the man sentenced to just one day in the County Jail. November 20, 1895, he was sentenced to one year in San Quentin for petty larceny with a prior offense. Now comes the last crime, with a forty-day penalty. Borrull says that as soon as his sentence is served, he will leave Los Angeles and try to brace up, but in all probability he will be arrested again before very long, and given another trip to the penitentiary.

MORE GOLD BRICKS.

HOW EDWIN ATLEE DUPED A SERIES OF PARTNERS.

Queer Dealings in Gold—Atlee charged with Selling What He Bought for His Own Profit and Palming Off Lead on His Partners.

A swindling scheme with an old-gold tinge to it has landed Edwin Atlee in the City Jail with a charge of grand larceny against him.

Atlee is accused of inducing men with a little money to invest to go into partnership with him in the business of buying and selling old gold and silver and then swindling them out of the money which they had advanced.

His method of operation was simple. He had a shop on which was a sign announcing that he was ready to buy old gold and silver. He would go around to the pawn shops and second-hand stores, and buy up old jewelry and plate. This he would melt down and sell to local assayers, or else send it away to market. Atlee made gold-making money was too slow for his enterprising spirit. He wanted to make his profits more readily. So he advertised for partners. It was not a very difficult matter to find some man with a little money to invest. Atlee explained the details of the straight-forward part of his business to the new partner, and obtained from him a sum of money with which to buy old gold and silver at pawn shops, and from private individuals.

Atlee bought old gold and silver according to programme. But instead of turning the proceeds into the common treasury, he is said to have sold the metal in small quantities to assayers and to have pocketed the proceeds.

The partner began to grow uneasy. Then Atlee produced a bar of some bright metal which looked like solid gold, and announced that he had just melted up his purchases, and that now they would send the bars of gold away and see what they could get for them. When the pay for the bars returned from the purchasers in San Francisco or elsewhere, it was always about one-third what the partner expected. Atlee could generally explain that he must have been fooled when purchasing the goods, or that the purchaser was evidently a swindler. As a last resort he could hide from his partner.

Last summer Atlee borrowed $25 from Smith, the Los Angeles assayer. He had had frequent dealings with him before. So Smith did not feel afraid to make the loan. But instead of paying back the money, Atlee disappeared. The partner with whom he was at that time doing business, a man named Curtis, discovered that Atlee had been sending him. The result was that Atlee was arrested in Fresno and brought back to Los Angeles. He was finally turned loose without paying any penalty for his misdoings.

He did not take warning from his narrow escape but went on with his peculiar style of business. On June 4 he showed his latest partner, on June 4 he showed his latest partner, and announced that he would now send these pieces of gold, which he declared were worth $300, and which represented, he said, the old gold which had been sold to him for $100. When the money for the gold returned, there was only $100 for the partner to divide. Anderson, smelling a rat. He laid the matter before Chief Glass, and Detective Goodman was given entire charge of the case. Goodman went promptly to work, and speedily ran down his man and hunted up his record. Atlee was placed in jail yesterday on a charge of grand larceny. A $2000 bond, placed under $2000 bond. Detective Goodman has learned of two other partners whom he accuses Atlee of swindling. In the case of each, he is said to have robbed Curtis and Anderson.

The nuggets which Atlee sent away, is needless to say, were bogus. They were a compound of copper, platinum, gold, etc., of about the same weight as gold, and susceptible of taking a polish which made them look like the real article. When rubbed on a testing stone the result was confidence-inspiring, and it was only on melting them that the fraud could be easily detected.

A Trifle Severe.

[Two Republics, City of Mexico.] Gov. Budd of California is having extraordinary pressure brought to bear upon him to commute the sentence of Theodore Durrant, the man who was convicted of a most horrible murder in San Francisco. ### WORK IN THE PARKS.

SUPERINTENDENT GAREY SHOWS WHAT HAS BEEN DONE.

Steps to Be Taken to Define the Boundaries of Elysian So as to Provide Against Dangerous Fires from Trespassers.

The Board of Park Commissioners met in regular session yesterday morning in the committee-room of the Mayor's office. Commissioners Waters, Teed, Griffith and Workman and Mayor Snyder were present.

Park Superintendent Garey made a long report on the condition of the parks, and the progress of work in each for the month of May. In the East Los Angeles Park nursery there are now about one hundred thousand plants, all of which will be ready for transplanting during the months of June and July. During the month of May 8200 plants have been sent out for use in the various parks. The cloth house has been removed, and new tables built for the collection of cacti originally placed in the glass house, but now transferred to the cloth house. About fifteen hundred new plants have been sent out in the park.

At Elysian Park three men and three teams have been employed in watering the shrubbery set out during the winter, and four men and teams cultivated the lawn. A recommendation is made by the Park Superintendent that the boundary lines of the park be established, in order to provide for the protection of the groves from accidental fire and trespass. The dry condition of the grass makes a fire especially likely to occur and dangerous. Iron posts should be planted for permanent use along the boundary line, so that it may be easily traced. The work of the un-employment on the boulevard and at Fremont Gate is progressing satisfactorily. A recommendation is made that the request of Judge Silent for hold to finish the necessary work be granted.

In Echo Park 3000 feet of 1-inch iron pipe, hydrants and the necessary fixtures have been put in place, and are now in use, providing an ample water supply under great pressure. About five hundred feet more pipe will be laid this week, and the work completed so that the water facilities in Echo Park will be equal to those of any park in the city.

At Central Park during the month of May 1000 rose bushes, 400 arbutus, 300 ivy geraniums, 550 petunias, and 1600 other plants were set. At St. James Park 450 plants of various varieties were set out.

No work except that of maintenance has been done in Prospect Park. One thousand plants were set out in the Plaza. Hollenbeck Park is in good condition. Westlake Park has been cleaned up and many of the beds fertilized. 350 square feet of new lawn have been sown, and 1200 plants set out.

On motion of Commissioner Workman, the board requested the Council to instruct the City Engineer to survey the south and east lines of Elysian Park, and the boundary lines be defined by substantial posts, on account of the encroachment of private individuals upon the city lands.

The lease and bond for the boating privileges of Westlake Park were referred back to the Council without change. The Commissioners not considering an increase in the number of boats on the lake necessary. It was also recommended that the contract and bond of Newell Bros. be approved.

It appearing that the charges preferred by citizens against Frank Adams, a laborer in Westlake Park, were not sustained, the Park Superintendent was instructed to reinstate him. A request from certain parties for permission to quarry stone was refused.

City Treasurer's Report.

City Treasurer Hartwell has filed with the City Clerk a statement of the condition of the various funds in the city treasury on May 31. The following amounts are shown to have been on hand at that time: Cash, $9785.95; salary, $195; fire department, $6752.48; common school, $3105.86; new water, $3931.87; library, $8238.62; street sprinkling, $8424.32; general park, $1014.83; street lighting, $4247.56; nursery, $544.89; Westlake Park, $2248.10; East Los Angeles Park, $378.12; Hollenbeck Park, $234.12; Elysian Park, $1930.32; general sewer, $1102.94; police pension, $2572.65; police permit, $228.19; public market, $1.93; zanja, $1376.48; tax of 1897, $335.78. A summary of the funds shows that there was on hand on April 30, $297,592.77; cash received amounted to $82,556.62, and transfers and apportionments, $31,031.21, making a total of $201,180.60, against which are set transfers and apportionments to the amount of $31,031.21, and disbursements in cash, $297,722.27, leaving a balance on hand May 31, of $178,427.12.

Electric Light.

The Lanfranco estate by its agent, C. A. Baskerville, has petitioned the Court that an electric light be placed on Main street opposite Temple street where a light is badly needed on account of the crowded condition of the street.

Police Court Collections.

Police Judge Morrison has filed with the City Clerk an itemized statement of all moneys received by him as a city justice during the month of May. These funds, to the amount of $143.75, have been paid into the city treasury.

National Bank Deposits.

The City Attorney, by request of City Assessor Seaman, has rendered an opinion on the question of taxing national bank deposits. The gist of the opinion is that the deposits cannot be assessed against the banks, but must be assessed against the individual depositors. The opinion has no bearing on the savings or Strathmore banks. By this ruling no doubt numbers of depositors will escape without paying one cent in taxes on that class of personal property which is represented by money in the bank.

Awards for Sewers.

The Sewer Committee met yesterday and recommended for acceptance by the Council the following bids for sewer work:

C. L. Powell for Chicago street, at 63 cents per foot; George Banaz for Eighth street and two alleys in West End Terrace, at 70 cents per foot; George Banaz for Twelfth street, from Central avenue to 45 cents per foot; L. Powell for Byram street at 73.9 cents per foot; M. Vusick for Georgia and Ottawa streets at 67 1/2 cents per foot; George Banaz for Twelfth street from Stanford avenue to 130 feet east of San Pedro street, at 45 cents per foot; George Banaz for Twelfth street, between Hemlock and Tennessee streets, at 49 cents per foot.

Board of Health.

The Board of Health, Health Officer Powers and Water Overseer Casey made a thorough inspection last Wednesday afternoon of the zanja system of the city, including the reservoirs. A visit was also paid to the County Hospital.

(AT THE COURT HOUSE.)

MYSTERIOUS BURGLARS.

ONE WAS ARRESTED AND THE OTHER RAN AWAY.

Doane Flint Examined Before Justice Young in the Township Court. He was Held to Answer for Burglarizing the Castle Saloon.

In the Township Court yesterday Justice of the Peace William Young devoted but a few minutes to the examination of Doane Flint on a charge of burglary. The only witnesses sworn were Deputy Sheriff White and H. C. Vignes, both called on behalf of the prosecution. The defense offered no testimony, and passed Vignes without cross-examination. Flint was held to answer to the Superior Court in bonds of $500, in default of which he was remanded to the County Jail.

The complaint against Flint alleged that he entered the Castle Saloon, at the corner of Seventh and Main streets, with intent to commit larceny. He is a morphine and cocaine fiend, and when arrested had a good supply of both drugs and instruments for their use on his person. When arraigned, Flint was so weak physically that he could hardly stand alone. The testimony of Deputy Sheriff White at the examination yesterday was as follows: "I was in the vicinity of Seventh and Main streets, on the morning of June 5, about 1 o'clock. I heard the window in the back end of the Castle Saloon, on the corner of Seventh and Main streets, raised or lowered—moved, at least—and a man jumped on the roof of the room. About three or four minutes afterward I heard a man working with a bar, at least it sounded as though he was picking the bar out of the door. I next heard the key turning in the lock, and the door was thrown open a little bit. I pushed the door open and caught this defendant when he was opening the door. I arrested him as he was on the inside of the hallway of the saloon."

On cross-examination White said that he did not know who made the arrest. "Did you see anybody else there?" asked Attorney Copeland who represented Flint. "Well, answered the officer, "I saw the feet of somebody else. I could see the feet of somebody from where I was standing. I couldn't see anybody else."

"Did you see his face?" was then asked. "No, sir."

"What became of him?" "From what I could see, he went out of the side gate on to Seventh street."

"You arrested this defendant?" "Yes, sir."

"Did you make any effort to arrest the other man?" "I couldn't very well from where I was. I made no effort to arrest him."

"Had you seen any one else that night who told you that there was any one trying to break in the back way?" "Yes, sir."

"Where had you met him?" "I met him on Fifth street."

"Then you went up there?" "Yes, sir."

"And found this man?" "Yes, sir."

"His name is his name?" "His name is I don't know, sir, what his name was. I never heard his name."

"Would you know him if you saw him?" "Yes, sir. I believe I would."

"He is not here, is he?" "No, sir. I don't see him."

And with that White was excused from the witness stand. The second and last witness called was H. C. Vignes, who conducts the Castle Saloon for the owner, Louis Reese. Vignes was only asked a few questions by Deputy District Attorney James, who was conducting the prosecution, and was excused by Copeland with a single interrogatory in cross-examination. His testimony was substantially that he left the saloon closed for the night, as was his custom, and in the morning found a rear window open.

THE CRIMINAL DOCKET.

Minor Business Transacted by Judge Smith in Department One.

Before the commencement of the trial of Crawford Malkin for raping Dora Green, which occupied nearly all day yesterday in Department One, Judge Smith disposed of a considerable list of criminal business of minor importance.

Walter Taylor, charged with assault to rape a thirteen-year-old girl, was arraigned, and June 14 set as a date for him to plead to the charge.

The case of Harry C. Norris, charged with the abduction of Gertrude A. Carter, was called, but as the District Attorney stated that the parties had been married and the matter satisfactorily adjusted, the case was dismissed.

Louis Hildebrand pleaded guilty to a burglary charge, and Judge Smith sentenced him to one year's imprisonment in the State's prison at Folsom. D. E. Sweet pleaded guilty to embezzlement, and as the amount of his defalcation was found to be $25, the court sentenced him to ninety days in the County Jail. Theodore Cantwell pleaded guilty to murdering Mollie Phelan, and was committed to the State School at Whittier, as he was but 17 years of age. Marianno Ruiz is not of the same family as the three brothers charged with grand larceny.

O'KEEFE'S BONDSMEN.

Suit Filed by the State and County to Recover the Forfeited Bond.

Two suits were filed by Deputy District Attorney James yesterday, entitled the People of the State of California and the county of Los Angeles vs. Albert L. Myers and W. J. Davis, one of San Diego, and one of San Francisco. The suits are for the recovery of $2000 and the other for $1000. The defendants Myers and Davis were the bondsmen of William O'Keefe, who indulged in a little pistol practice last February in the Elite saloon on Spring street.

O'Keefe was charged with two charges, one of assault with intent to murder and the other of assault with intent to commit larceny. He was charged with the murder of a gambler named Henry Anderson. The bail was fixed at $2000 on the first charge and $1000 on the other. The defendants Myers and Davis subscribed their names as sureties for O'Keefe's appearance for trial, in the following: "I consider the above bondmen good for the amount above specified, and I would approve this bond were it presented to me in a similar case. E. S. Torrance, Judge of the Superior Court of San Diego county." On the 7th of this month the case of the People vs. O'Keefe was called in Department One, but no O'Keefe was to be found. Judge Smith accordingly declared the bond forfeited, and this suit was filed to recover a judgment in the amount of the bond.

Johnson of Skyland, Santa Cruz county, and L. J. Sears of Wright, Santa Cruz county, are named as directors. The company's capital stock is stated at $100,000, divided into 100,000 $1 shares. Of this amount $1015 has been actually subscribed.

Kitchen and J. M. W. Hoffman of Hove, all of Toluca, are directors in its articles of incorporation. Four hundred dollars of the $4000 of capital stock has been actually subscribed.

DORA GREEN'S STORY.

She Alleges That Crawford Malkin Criminally Assaulted Her.

The trial of the case of the People vs. Crawford Malkin for raping Dora Green, which commenced yesterday before Superior Judge Smith in Department One, Assistant District Attorney W. T. Williams conducted the prosecution, and Malkin was represented by the law firm of Davis & Rush, and House & Bentley.

All yesterday forenoon was spent in impaneling a jury, which was secured before the noon hour. The first witness placed on the stand by the State was the complaining witness, Dora Green. Her testimony was substantially that she was drugged and assaulted by the defendant, and that he subsequently admitted the assault and promised to marry her.

In cross-examination the defense sought to establish that the Greens wanted Dora to marry Malkin in order to obtain the ten or fifteen thousand dollars he is supposed to be worth. The counsel for the defense stated that the defendant's case was the contention that the witnesses for the prosecution had entered into a conspiracy for purposes of blackmail. Mr. Davis's cross-questioning yesterday resulted in several discrepancies between the witnesses' testimony and her statements on the preliminary hearing of the case in the Justice Court.

The children are sons of A. B. Greer, alias Harry Brown, and his wife, Maggie Brown, and the boys are now living at the News' and Workers' Boys' Home, where they have been since last January. Mrs. Brown has procured a divorce from her husband, whereby the three children were placed in her custody. Judge Clark granted the petition and appointed Mr. Chandler as the legal guardian of the three boys.

TWO DIVORCES GRANTED. Mrs. I. B. Wilsey was granted a decree of divorce from her husband, M. J. Wilsey, and Mrs. A. Kratzer from her husband, A. THE BRILLIANT CASE. In Department One yesterday Mrs. Carrie Brilliant introduced further evidence in support of her allegations of cruelty which constitute the grounds for her divorce suit against her husband, Benjamin Brilliant. In spite of this further evidence Judge Allen did not grant the decree, but took the case under advisement.

The Chief of Police, who is not behind the counter running nearly the entire length of the Clerk's main office. The Clerk and his deputies always take great care in keeping the complaints from outside parties, and when the filing of the suits is reported to newspaper representatives, nothing but the names of the plaintiff and defendant are given out. Under no circumstances are the grounds or allegations ever reported or repeated by the Clerk's deputies. It is a recognized fact among reporters for the newspapers that any of the statements in a divorce complaint must be ascertained from outside parties or some one interested in the proceedings.

DEAF AND DUMB.

PITIFUL TALE OF A FRIENDLESS YOUNG WOMAN.

She Found It Impossible to Hold Her Tongue. All the Time—How the Impertinent Was Discovers Miss Fink's Reputation in Columbus and Denver.

A woman, young, helpless, suddenly stricken deaf and dumb by disease—there surely is a picture pitiful enough to move anyone to sympathy. Monte Goli, otherwise Miss Fink, found it effective to earn her living, and however helpless she may pretend to be, she certainly proved herself a resourceful young person.

She is neither deaf nor dumb. She has adopted the role of a deaf mute as a convenient means of enlisting sympathy. It has worked admirably, but now her industry and perseverance promise to be brought to naught, all because of the common feminine failing—an inability to hold her tongue!

This deaf mute impostor has aroused the anger of the deaf mutes of the city by her impertinent remarks. A deaf mute daughter of Thomas Widd, the man who is the leading member of the colony. They have asked the police detectives to take the matter up, and Miss Fink will henceforth find life in Los Angeles decidedly uncomfortable.

Some weeks ago a young woman appeared at the office of Chief Glass and introduced herself as Miss Fink. She was a deaf mute, and in six months of speech or hearing. On a page of paper she wrote an account of herself in which she claimed that she was destitute and penniless, and that she set forth that her chief desire was to get to some deaf and dumb school and learn the speech used by mutes. The Chief of Police, who is a deaf mute, Thomas Widd, the deaf mute, and enough money to pay her care for to his home.

Widd received the woman cautiously. She explained to him that she had lost her hearing when she was only six months before that she had lost her hearing when she had learned only a little of the sign language. It struck Widd as very strange indeed that a woman of 22 who had been in full possession of all her faculties until a recent period should in six months lose all power of articulation. He immediately classified the woman as an impostor and refused to have anything to do with her.

A few days ago it is alleged that Miss Fink went to the Boston Optical Company and ordered a pair of eye-glasses, giving her name as Miss Widd. The Chief of Police, who is a deaf mute, Widd received a letter from the optician, asking why Miss Widd did not come for her glasses. Widd made inquiries and learned the facts in the case. He assured the optician that he had no deaf mute daughter, and then laid the matter before the police. They found the place where Miss Fink had been boarding, and on inquiry learned that she could talk as well as anybody.

The deaf mutes Journal, a paper published in New York, edited by E. A. Hodgson, in its issue of June 2, published a letter from a correspondent in Columbus, Ohio, denouncing the woman's trickery. Miss Fink is said by the writer of the article to have visited Denver, where she told the Chief of Police that her mother was dying in Los Angeles, and that she had no money to pay her way West.

ELECTRIC MAIL SERVICE.

Postal Authorities at Washington Will Think About It.

Postmaster Matthews received a letter yesterday from G. F. Stone, Acting Second Assistant Postmaster-General, saying that the matter of establishing an electric-car mail service between Los Angeles and Pasadena had been duly called to the attention of the department, and would receive consideration at the earliest practicable date.

Closing Exercises at the High School. The following is the programme of closing exercises at the High School:

Friday morning, June 11, the field day of the summer class of '97 will be held at Athletic Park. The list of prizes will be large, and the programme of events will be more elaborate than at former field days. In the afternoon the winter class of '98 will hold its class song and gold star-and-crescent pins, the badge of the High School Alumni Association, will be given to members of the summer class of '97. In the evening the graduating exercises of the commercial course will be held in Music Hall. The class numbers twenty-two. ## Crops and Markets.

There has been no particular change to note in the local markets during the past week, cloudy nights and foggy mornings having continued throughout the Coast section. The weather has been cooler than usual at this time of the year. Haymaking is about finished, and harvesting is progressing in some sections. Early sown grain shows about an ordinary crop, while the late sown is very poor.

Almonds are reported to be doing well. Peaches and apricots are a fair crop. Altogether, the outlook for the deciduous fruit crop is excellent, with the exception of prunes.

The local markets are gay with a fine display of deciduous fruits of almost all descriptions. Peaches and plums are still lacking, although some early peaches have been shipped from the northern part of the State. Cherries are plentiful, and have been regaling from 55 to 60 cents per box. The apricots so far received, lack flavor. There has been quite a drop in new potatoes during the past week. Reports from the various grain-growing sections of Southern California go to show that this year's grain crop will be the best ever gathered. This, with the improved prices for wine, should place a large amount of money in circulation among the wine men.

The Riverside Fruit Exchange has apparently decided not to combine with the Southern California exchanges this year, but will work more or less in sympathy with the head organization.

Agricultural Depression.

The Michigan Political Science Association has published a pamphlet on the subject of general depression in the United States, by W. A. Coates. The writer treats of overproduction, and shows that there has been a greater increase of food products than of the cultivated area. The use of machinery on the farm, and its effect in different localities is considered. The writer, however, considers the increase of farm products insufficient, of itself, to account for the depression. He criticizes the increasing disparity in the assessment of real and personal property, the effect which falls on the farmer until the price of farm products has risen. He does not consider that farm mortgages have any relevancy to depression, and they cannot lessen the returns of capital productively employed. In general, industrial depression and the decline of wages in factories he finds one of the leading causes of the troubles of the farmer. Transportation also has disturbed the relative value of land, causing a fall in long-settled communities, and a rise in new communities.

Of Mr. Lubin's scheme, and placing a bounty on grain, Mr. Coates does not approve, considering it absurd to suppose that the bounty could increase the general prosperity, while he thinks it would ultimately prove injurious to the farmer.

In regard to the remedies which might be suggested, the writer sums up by stating that we have seen that until within recent years agricultural production has increased in greater ratio than population, and although we have also seen that the natural tendency of this fact to lower profits has been largely counteracted, we may yet regard it as a factor in depression. Production, especially of wheat, has lately been curtailed, even in the United States. This is a mark and an inevitable result of severe depression, but it is also an effectual though drastic remedy. It has not yet caused any rise in prices, owing, probably, to the general industrial depression. But if cultivation be confined in the United States to its present limits, the home market will in the course of a few years be the best market for the American farmer, as prices will be higher here by the cost of transportation than in countries that export farm products. There is little doubt that cultivation in the United States will hereafter only increase as the farmers' prosperity increases and land rises in value. Restriction will be spontaneous, although government will likely continue to render it unwelcome assistance by burdening the farmer with the bulk of the expense of government, and compelling him to pay tribute to the manufacturer. This remedy is self-acting. It will operate without any artificial assistance in time, even in spite of artificial interference. Eventually supply and demand must adjust themselves to remunerative prices. He thinks the only true salvation for American farmers is to be found in self-help and says:

"American farmers must gird their loins and rally forth willing to meet the world on equal terms, so far as nature's terms are equal. Asking only for justice from the rest of the community, they must abide the result of free competition both at home and abroad. For them who diligently acquire knowledge and with industry and wisdom apply it to the cultivation of the soil, the issue is not doubtful. The larger and here and there unfortunate, may be driven to the wall for a brief period. Indeed, until demand at remunerative prices has overtaken supply, more general frugality may have to be practiced, expenditure may have to be curtailed, and the farmer's toil endured. But with the steady increase in population, the better distribution of wealth that must follow the progress of the working classes, the farmer's labor must soon bring him larger returns. As he learns to acquire and apply the knowledge disseminated by the Agricultural Department, the various colleges and experiment stations, he will find many ways of reducing the cost of production, and thus increase profits even at present prices."

"On his success in reducing cost of production depends in the main, the issue of his struggle with foreign competitors. Those countries, other things being equal, that can offer farm products in the world's markets at lower prices without reducing profits, must have an advantage over all others, and during a period of universal agricultural depression will be able to compel the latter to curtail production while they continue to increase their own."

"It is the glory, alike of individuals and of nations, to vie with one another

In the arts of peace and industry. There may be evil incident both to private and international competition, but they are greatly outweighed by the benefits. International competition is likely to increase in the future. As improvements in the means of locomotion and communication more and more annihilate space, and as civilization extends, the result must be to lessen the advantages attaching to geographical position and to place all nations upon a footing more nearly equal for the production of wealth. There will result also a greater international division of labor."

The Horticultural Commission.
H. Parker Bailey writes to The Times as follows:

"While driving in to the city today I met a man about a mile east of San Gabriel with a load of lemon trees. He inquired the road to Azusa, of me, and while talking to him I noticed that his trees had some sort of scale on them. I brought a leaf in with me and am told by men that know the fruit that it is the red scale. I inclosed the leaf in my letter. I asked the man if he had had the trees inspected, and he said no, as the new horticultural commission had not yet been organized. It is not time that the fruit growers took a hand in this, demanded some protection from the Supervisors and stopped the nurserymen from selling infested trees?"

The leaf inclosed by Mr. Bailey is badly infested with the red scale. As he says, it is about time that the Supervisors should wake up to the danger which they are bringing upon the horticultural industry of this county. The Times has already stated that it will not be long before outsiders will avoid any nursery stock raised in this county, unless more careful inspection is introduced.

Sugar-beet Experiments.
It is unfortunate that the House of Representatives should have refused to endorse the action of the Senate, providing $5000 to continue experiments in sugar-beet culture. It is strongly hinted that this action of the Senate was dictated by the Sugar Trust.

Meantime, however, the good work that has already been done by the Department of Agriculture, under the direction of Secretary Wilson, will by no means be thrown away. When the time for planting next year's crop of beets arrives, the department will be able to give the farmers of the country some practical information. Then reports will have been received from the farmers to whom seeds were furnished, and some idea can be gained of the sections where the plant can be successfully cultivated. One, or even two years' trial, however, is not too long to continue the experiment.

A Washington correspondent of the Minneapolis Journal says: "It is the intention of Secretary Wilson to have a map prepared by next spring, showing the areas in which it has been found sugar beets can be profitably grown. These maps will be distributed to the farmers throughout the country and are intended as a guide to those contemplating engaging in beet culture. The calculations will be based upon reports received from the farmers who have been furnished seed. Assistant Secretary Delaney has prepared a map based upon the theory of the culture of the sugar beet, which he thinks practical experiments will verify. Let his predictions should prove false, however, he does not desire to have this map published. He believes that the sugar beet can be successfully grown in all the States around the Great Lakes, and in the Northwestern States as far west as Idaho and California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Wyoming, Colorado, and portions of Texas, as well as Kansas and Nebraska. Of course, in many of these States the land would have to be irrigated. Washington and Oregon are too wet, and Dr. Delaney does not believe that beets can be profitably cultivated in the States over a 73 deg. in latitude. It has, of course, yet been determined in how high or how low a temperature beets can be grown. While they might do well at 73 deg. in Europe, in this country certain climatic influences, ocean currents and the Great Lakes, might make considerable difference. This can only be accurately determined by practical test."

"Secretary Wilson is an enthusiast upon the subject of sugar-beet culture. He believes it will solve the problem of hard times for the farmer and give him a crop which will always render quick and sure returns. He has every confidence in the future of the sugar beet in this country, and looks for a tremendous demand for seed next spring."

Tobacco and Vines.
One of the advantages in California tobacco culture, concerning which there is much talk at present, would be the fact that, after tobacco has to a certain extent exhausted the soil, that soil is in first-class condition for raising grapes, from which good wine can be made. One of the main reasons why California wines are not equal to the fine grades of wine raised in Germany and France is that the soil is too rich. For this reason, better wines are made in the older wine-producing sections of Napa and Sonoma counties, where viticulture has been carried on for forty years or more. Some of the noted vineyards of Europe have been cropped regularly for over a thousand years. In this way tobacco culture and wine making might be made to go hand in hand in California.

Tobacco in Florida.
California is by no means the only State in which attention has been directed to tobacco culture as a new industry. A writer in a Florida paper says that South Florida, which was formerly one vast orange grove, has been transformed since the big freeze into a tobacco farm, and tobacco farming promises to be more remunerative than orange growing. Much of the tobacco raised there, it is said, will prove equal to that heretofore imported from Cuba, and many natives

Big Strikes at Randsburg Today.

Rock that Fairly Glitters with Gold in the Val Verde No. 2.

Associated Press Dispatch: Randsburg, June 9.—Again the camp is agog with excitement over new strikes yesterday. The Wedge opened up a 4½-foot body of rich ore, the counterpart of the rich strike made three weeks ago in the Kinyon. The rock fairly glitters with gold, and much of it shows a value of a dollar per ounce in the Val Verde No. 2 shaft, where heretofore comparatively low grade ore has been worked. A fabulously rich strike was made yesterday, and ore worth $300 a ton is now being taken out.

TO THE PUBLIC: Owing to the richness of the strike made yesterday in our Val Verde No. 2, intending investors may not be able to secure stock in the VAL VERDE mines unless they make application AT ONCE, as stock may advance to par or above at any time, or may be taken off the market altogether.

Peanuts in Orange Groves.

A writer in the Florida Agriculturist recommends peanuts as a good crop to plant between orange trees. They are nitrogen gatherers and help to build up the land. In addition to the value of the nuts, the plants make good forage. They are easily planted and cultivated, do not have to be plowed out of the ground when harvested, hence they do not interfere with the roots of the orange tree.

Distant Markets for California Vegetables.

[Oakland Tribune:] According to a report recently made by the secretary of the Board of Trade there has been a large falling off in the shipment of California vegetables to eastern markets during three years. In 1933 there was a shipment of 7000 carloads of vegetables, while three years later the shipment of vegetables had fallen to 1617 carloads. A San Francisco contemporary undertakes to account for this loss by the operation of the Wilson tariff. That measure had but a slight influence, if any, on the shipment of California vegetables. The year of the greatest shipment was a better business year than any of the succeeding ones. That would account for some part of the difference. Another reason is to be found in the large shipments from Florida. When the orange crop failed in that State, the people sought to mitigate the disaster by turning their attention to the production of vegetables on a far greater scale than had ever been known there. Many averted bankruptcy in that way. They could tide over the years when no oranges could be sent to market.

The Florida vegetable-growers had the advantage of nearer markets. They could place their products in the New York market and in all the other great cities of the Atlantic seaboard in two days or less from the time they were taken from the fields. The Bermuda men made only a small impression on the early markets. They could send peas and potatoes to New York in the last days of January. But the Florida men really had the call. While the loss of the orange crop in that State was of considerable advantage to the citrus growers of California, it resulted in a remarkable difference on the other side to the vegetable growers. Florida, the Florida grower can step into them four days in advance of the California grower. But for two years past Florida men have sent to this State for oranges by the carload, while they have made the principal difference noted by the Board of Trade in the shipment of vegetables.

Children as Horticulturists.
A two-year-old horticultural association in Alsace, which is conducted by a schoolteacher, has through the efforts of scholars, accomplished most of the following, says American Gardening: Two hundred and seventy-five fruit trees planted, 1000 fruit trees scraped and the trunks dressed against insect attacks, 86 fruit trees regrafted, 2500 grafts distributed, 1500 guards erected against attacks of rabbits—150 breeding cages hung in the trees—a common practice in Germany to encourage the birds—220 fruit trees pruned, 6500 pounds of May bugs gathered in 1896.

Hints for Lemon-growers.
Members of the Pasadena Lemon Growers' Association have been addressed by the board of directors through the secretary, T. J. Ashby, in which are a number of suggestions on the clipping and treatment of lemons preparatory to packing and shipment that are generally applicable and valuable to growers. Some of the points made are as follows:

The stems must be cut close, but care must be taken not to cut the branches or bruise the fruit. It is found that many cuts are made by careless clipping and long finger nails. The desirable sizes are the 300s in summer and the 300s in winter. These measure 2½ to 3½ and 2½ to 3½. Lemons above and below are graded subject to the discretion of the manufacturer. Lemon groves should be picked over once a month. Use padded baskets or pails into which the fruit should be laid—not dropped or thrown—then carefully transfer to boxes placed in the shade.

Pick before irrigation, or wait several days. Never pick a lemon moist from fog or dew, or leave them unprotected after gathering. Haul to the warehouse on easy springs; drive carefully and have the lemons covered to protect from dust and sun. We advise delivering or placing in barn or shed as soon as possible after picking.

Smutty fruit received will be washed or sponged at the expense of the grower. Members have the option of doing this for themselves, but it is well to remember spraying or fumigating is much less of an expense. It will pay for the grower to cull his own fruit and not haul it both ways. Experience will soon show a novice what to reject. The sum of these suggestions is that the one who brings the best grade of carefully-handled fruit is the one who gets the best return at the least personal expense.

No breed of hens will lay an egg each day, for any very long time, without a period of rest. This is true, even of what are called the non-sitting varieties. There are a few days rest, generally, though sometimes not more than one or two between different sittings.

It should be remembered that the horse becomes thirsty in warm weather as well as man. If his master requires water to allay his thirst every hour, the horse should be offered the same comfort at least once between meals. It may be observed here that water which has been drawn for an hour or two will quench thirst, requiring but a moderate amount for the purpose.

Absolute experiment has shown that additional fat in the food increases the yield of milk without impoverishing its composition. In other words, the yield of butter fat is increased by fat in the food.

What is said to be the first cargo of grain shipped from this country to Egypt cleared recently from Philadelphia for Alexandria, on the steamer Glendower. It consisted of 137,906 bushels of corn, partly in bulk and partly in bags. This corn, it is said, has been purchased by the Egyptian government for seed purposes. Part of the cargo is to be carried to the interior of the country on camels' backs.

Ohio, Jr., Was Swift.
[Minneapolis Journal:] A short bulletin has just been issued by Prof. Green of the Department of Horticulture of the State Experiment Station. He devotes the bulletin to potatoes, the first part to the tests which were made during the last year at the station, the second part being given up to a discussion of the merits of various machines for the cutting, planting, harvesting and separating the potatoes. The machinery for the handling of the present enormous potato crop in this country has increased greatly in extent. Manufacturers of this kind of machinery, both for hand and horse power, were invited to send machines to the farm, where Prof. Green and his assistants gave them the best possible showing in actual field work, and even sent them out in some cases to farmers, where they would have a still wider test. Illustrations are made of the more feasible machines, with a description of their methods. About 5000 worth of potato-planter were given to the station by the manufacturers. The application of good machines for cutting, planting and harvesting potatoes is something of quite recent development.

Tabular statements are made showing the investigations which have been carried on at the farm during the year with the question of the best varieties of potatoes for the Minnesota soils. The place where the seed was grown, having all varieties in the same general condition when planted, and the influence of scab and blight, were some of the factors which it was necessary to take into consideration in comparing the yields.

Two general varieties of tests were followed—one of early kinds, one of late kinds. All the seed was cut in the same way, one, two, or three eyes on a piece, the potato being of good size. To determine the comparative earliness of varieties for marketing, one lot was planted May 8 to 9, and on July 14, fifteen hills of each kind were dug. The Ohio, Jr., gave the largest yield of marketable early potatoes—twenty-three pounds, three and a half ounces, with thirty pounds and one ounce of small potatoes. It ranked much lower in total yield, however, when compared with varieties not quite so early.

An elaborate table shows the total yield of thirty-five varieties of potatoes at the end of the season, averaging from 210 bushels to the acre up to 510 bushels. Twenty-six varieties averaged over 300 bushels to the acre; seven varieties over 400 bushels, and two varieties—"Enormous" and "Rose No. 9"—over 500 bushels per acre.

Considerable attention is paid to potato scab—a subject which interests all growers. Prof. Green says that practically the only scab that seriously injures the Minnesota potato crop is caused by a disease, not by an insect. He outlines a method of treating this disease—soaking the seed potatoes before or after cutting up, in a solution of corrosive sublimate for one and one-half hours. He describes the method in this way:

Procure from a druggist two ounces of powdered corrosive sublimate, put this into two gallons of hot water in a wooden or earthenware vessel, allow it to stand until dissolved. Place thirteen gallons of clean water in a barrel, pour the solution of corrosive sublimate and allow it to stand two or three hours with frequent stirrings. Into this put the potatoes in bags for one and a half hours, after which they may be dried and stored until needed for planting or may be planted at once. But when potatoes have been thus treated it is necessary to plant them on land that has not grown scabby potatoes, for the scab disease may remain in the ground several years and may infect the tubers that are planted. This disease is probably communicated to the land by planting scabby potatoes, by manure from animals fed on scabby potatoes and by the wash water from hand growing scabby potatoes. It should be understood that corrosive sublimate is a deadly poison which requires to be handled with great care and if it is put into contact with the skin it corrodes them. In applying this remedy it is desirable to avoid using very scabby potatoes. Some experiments show that potatoes treated in this manner a little slower than those not treated, but we have found nothing to complain of on this account in the use of this remedy.

The Only Treatment

That Permanently Cures

CHRONIC CATARRH

Of the Respiratory Tract is the Specific Inhalation Treatment Used Exclusively by

The English and German Expert Specialists

EXPERT EVIDENCE ON CATARRH.

After 25 years of study and practice in the treatment and cure of catarrh, the public as well as the medical profession and all sufferers from catarrh will be interested in anything that the greatest catarrh specialist of modern times has to say on this vital question. There has been much published concerning catarrh that has been misleading in the light of modern investigation and facts, and these errors have not alone crept into the public press but have appeared in the medical text books. Catarrh is now divided into two varieties:

Simple Catarrh and Specific Catarrh.

SIMPLE CATARRH is an acute inflammation of the mucous membranes, and arises from colds, exposure, foreign bodies, dust particles, injuries, etc., and runs a short course, terminating usually in recovery. If this simple catarrh is prolonged and breaks occur in the mucous membrane, the conditions become favorable for the onset of Specific Catarrh.

SPECIFIC CATARRH is due to a specific germ and will yield only to a specific remedy. This accounts for the thousands of cases that fail to get permanent relief. This catarrh is relieved while the treatment is kept up, but returns as soon as treatment ceases. The germs that cause the disease must be destroyed, and the membranes must be healed over perfectly before permanent relief can be expected.

The Specific Inhalation Treatment

Used exclusively by the English and German Expert Specialists, is the result of 25 years study and practice in the treatment and cure of chronic catarrh. By this unequalled treatment the catarrhal germs are destroyed instead of being washed into the lungs and stomach.

This is the Great Danger

With the usual methods, the germs are washed into healthy tissue and set up catarrh in new places, and much of the catarrh of the bronchial tubes, lungs, ears and stomach are due to this harmful method of treating Specific Catarrh.

A HOTEL MANAGER WHOSE ABSENCE IS MOURNED.

H. E. Eder of Sierra Madre Villa has gone East and left many debts behind him. The Electric News says for Street Lighting. News Notes.

PASADENA, June 10.—[Regular Correspondence.] H. E. Eder, until recently manager of the Sierra Madre Villa Hotel, went East last Monday and a number of people have been wondering whether he is coming back. Not that Mr. Eder is a unusually popular young man, but that he is unusually well supplied with creditors, and some of them are apprehensive that they will not get their money.

Eder came West last fall to take charge of the Sierra Madre Villa Hotel. For a time his management appeared to be satisfactory, but of late there has been some friction between Eder and David Lyman, one of the owners of the hotel. Eder had full control of the hotel, running up accounts with various tradespeople for supplies and handling all receipts and expenditures. The hotel supplies were purchased both in Pasadena and Los Angeles. The merchants with whom Eder dealt found him "slow pay," but he was supposed to be all right. A day or two before his departure, Eder mentioned to one of two persons that he expected to go East, but that he would be back in three weeks. Last Monday he informed Mr. Lyman of his intention, and two hours later he departed. It now transpires that he has left behind him debts amounting to from $2000 to $3000. A large part of these debts are for hotel supplies, and Mr. Lyman is now threatening that he will sue for these debts will be paid. Eder owed personal debts also, and these creditors are uneasy, despite his assurance that he would return.

When Eder went away he left his wife, child and father at the hotel. Mrs. Eder was asked several times about her husband last evening, but could give little information. She did not know whether he would come back or not; she only knew that he intended to do so about paying his debts, nor whether he would ever come back. If he should not she expected to join him in the East. She said that he does not think Eder will come back.

Six months ago Eder's mother died and he employed a Pasadena undertaker to embalm the remains. The body still lies in the undertaker's vault, as Eder, despite previous promises to pay, has never paid a cent on the account. It is said that he has also been exceedingly careless in his bank account, overdrawing his balances on more than one occasion.

FREE PUBLIC LIGHTING.

This afternoon the Pasadena and Los Angeles Electric Railway paid over to the Electric Light and Power Company the sum of $24.60, to cover the cost of lighting the city streets from May 24 to May 31, inclusive. It was upon the former date that the Terminal's application for a franchise was refused. The free lighting began on the evening made today was for a period of only eight days. The bills for public lighting during previous years have ranged from $900 to $950 per month. The saving of this sum every month will materially lessen the burden that rests upon the shoulders of the taxpayers.

SAN PEDRO.

William McFadden Held for Criminal Assault—Brexit.

SAN PEDRO, June 10.—[Regular Correspondence.] The preliminary examination of William McFadden, charged with assault with intent to commit rape upon Lena Haack, 18 years old, was held before Justice of the Peace Scelley Wednesday. He was held under $2000 bail to answer to the charge before the Superior Court, and in the absence of bond was taken to the Los Angeles County Jail to await trial.

Assistant Dist. Atty. Williams of Los Angeles conducted the prosecution, while W. H. Savage appeared for the defense. Miss Lena Haack, upon whom the assault is said to have been committed, was the first witness called. She testified that on Sunday afternoon, between 3 and 4 o'clock, while she and her 16-year-old sister were passing through the lumber yard on their way home, she noticed young McFadden hiding behind a pile of lumber, and she became frightened, and the girls increased their pace. McFadden followed, and soon caught up. In his hand he carried a coupling pin. As he grabbed Lena by the sleeve, her sister, Anna, attempted to strike McFadden over the head with a lath she was carrying. McFadden, who had been drinking, then raised the coupling pin in a menacing manner, remarking at the same time that he would either marry Lena or kill her. Both girls called for help, and upon the approach of J. F. Schroeder, a watchman in the yards, McFadden dropped his weapon and ran.

When called, Anna Haack corroborated the story told by her sister, and Mr. Schroeder, the watchman, told of seeing McFadden loitering about the yards in the afternoon and hastening after the girls. On the strength of this testimony McFadden was bound over.

PAVILION OPENING.

Preparations are being made for the reception of a large crowd on Sunday, when the new pavilion will be opened to the public. The Scheneman-Blanchard band of Los Angeles has been hired for the day and a concert will be given in the afternoon, as well as dancing. A monster clam bake for the crowd is being prepared, for which thousands of people are expected. The pavilion, which, with the adjoining shed and seats, has cost $1000, was erected at the expense of the business men of the city, and will make the opening day a grand success.

SAN PEDRO BREVITIES.

The streets in the central portion of the city are rapidly assuming a much improved appearance. The dirt road of sand is being scraped from the top, leaving the surface solid. As the watering cart is making regular trips the improvement will probably be lasting.

The steamer Louisa, Capt. Rossmussen, from Umpqua, arrived Wednesday with 4000 feet of lumber, consigned to the Kirkhoff-Cumler Lumber Company.

The schooner Joseph Ruse, Capt. Mattsen, arrived with 320,000 feet of lumber, consigned to the Southern California Lumber Company.

The schooner Navarro, Capt. Higgins, sailed for Los Angeles.

A writ of attachment was issued by Justice of the Peace Downing against Nicholas Rose, owner of a lot of lumber, on Tuesday and released on his own recognizance, pending trial. When the time set for trial arrived, Rose was reported as too drunk to appear. He will be locked up in order that he may appear Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock to answer to the charge of disturbing his wife's peace.

Announcement is made that Joe Cotton and Henry Griffin of Los Angeles will spar fifteen rounds for a purse of $1000 on Friday night, June 12, at 10 o'clock, at the McPherson Corral, 401 Aliso Street, 40 Head of Good Driving, Saddle, and Work Horses. The sale will be without reserve as they are sold under mortgage held by T. E. Moor.
